The following pages have been thrown together in consequence of reading Captain Head's Bough Notes of Journeys across the Pampas; not that they will serve to fill up his graphic sketches, or to carry out with broader lineaments, or more durable colouring, the scenes there depicted, for they relate to quite a different region of South America; but simply because it appeared to me, on reading Captain Head's book, that respecting a country of which so little is known, every one who had something to communicate should contribute his mite. Now Sir Francis B. Head.
