Arctic Foxes 2006

The circumpolar world of the arctic fox is a varied landscape, with comfortable temperatures and grassy habitats in the summers giving way to snow, ice, frigid winds and plunging temperatures during the harsh winters. These cat-sized foxes are well adapted to the changes, altering their coat colors with the seasons, hunting prey for themselves and their pups, and scavenging the hunts of other locals, like polar bears. In Arctic Foxes 2006 the patient and keen eye of award-winning photographer Norbert Rosing captures these small, finely featured arctic survivors in their strikingly severe, but beautiful habitat. Informative captions bring you closer to the fascinating world of the arctic fox.
