Beyond the Evangelical Impasse: Spirit Baptism and the Quest for Authentic Spiritual Experience D. Alan Blanc PhD

Written from an American Baptist point of view, the research contained in this thesis presents the relevant scholarship from two evangelical traditions with opposing BHS views, namely, American Baptist and Pentecostal. The perspective of the charismatic movement appears in the study because it aligns with some classical Pentecostal views though in other ways it is closer to the Baptist BHS position. The purpose of this investigation is to extend the debate beyond the limited parameters of the nature and function of BHS toward the formulation of a consensus view for American Baptist and P/C adherents. This previously unexplored bi-traditional approach to the BHS debate provided a unique focus to the thesis.
